Such a weirdo

Look at her!

Faith was feeling like everyone was looking and pointing fingers at her.

The walls were closing in and she felt unable to breathe for a while.

So she took out her notebook and started drawing

She was somehow feeling better;

the room was not suffocating her anymore.

The lines were drawing themselves and her imagination was running wild.

Then, all of a sudden...

POOF

...something appeared in the air

The dress that Faith had drawn appeared on her desk.

She was very shocked and confused;

the room was bright all of a sudden and all she could see was the light of her superpower.

When she realized her powers, she understood her mission in the world: helping other people like her.

Have you seen the blonde girl? Another weirdo in the school.

So, focused on her goal, she started drawing every night..

...to see the magic happen

Why did we judge her without even trying to know her?

Everybody should be respected!

She is so talented!

Faith organised a big fashion show where the models were kids that had been bullied for their appearance.

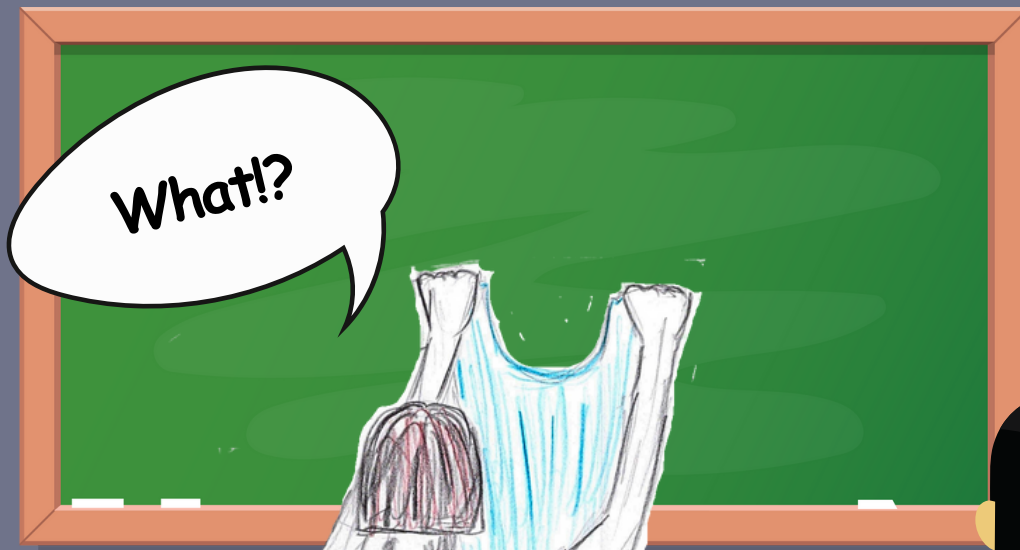

We should never judge people if we don't know them!

Thanks, Faith.

The lines were drawing themselves and her imagination was running wild!

The dress that Faith had drawn appeared on the desk. She was very shocked and confused and quickly

When she realized her powers she started drawing every night

She's hoping to make the lives of people like her better with clothes.

I got an idea!

Faith organized a big fashion show where the models were kids that had been bullied for their appearance.

Every person should be respected!
